

Price of French Horizontal Optical Cable Connector

AI Overview

The price of a French horizontal optical cable connector varies widely depending on type, manufacturer, and quantity, typically ranging from €5 to €50 per unit for standard connectors. Overview French suppliers of optical connectors include companies like IDIL Fibres Optiques, LUXERI, and Intercom Technologies, which offer fiber optic cables, connectors, and custom assemblies for industrial, telecom, and professional applications. B2B marketplaces such as Volza provide access to over 2,000 verified French optical connector suppliers, including shipment and export data, which can help estimate pricing and availability. Factors Affecting Price Connector Type: Standard connectors (SC, LC, ST) are generally less expensive, while specialized horizontal or expanded beam connectors cost more. Material and Technology: Physical Contact (PC) or Expanded Beam (EB) designs, ferrule materials, and durability for harsh environments influence cost. Quantity: Bulk orders reduce per-unit cost; single units are typically at the higher end of the price range. Supplier and Brand: French manufacturers with high reliability and certifications may charge premium prices. How to Obtain Exact Pricing Mouser Europe and Farnell UK list fiber optic connectors with pricing filters based on quantity, allowing you to check current unit prices in euros. Radiall provides custom optical assemblies and connectors with quotes available via direct contact or LiveChat. Volza offers detailed supplier and shipment data for French connectors, which can help identify cost-effective suppliers and negotiate prices. Recommendation For a French horizontal optical cable connector, it is best to: Identify the exact connector type and specifications (e.g., SC, LC, horizontal orientation, length). Check B2B suppliers like Volza or manufacturer websites for quotes. Consider bulk purchasing to reduce unit cost. Typical pricing for...
