

Price quote for cable trays in Venezuela

AI Overview

Cable trays in Venezuela are available from local distributors and online marketplaces, with prices varying by brand, material, and size, typically ranging from moderate to premium depending on specifications. Local Distributors and Brands In Caracas, authorized distributors such as Telser de Venezuela S.A. offer cable trays from brands like Legrand and Cablofil, suitable for electrical and structured cabling installations. These suppliers provide a range of sizes and materials, including metal and wire mesh trays, with pricing influenced by the tray type and load capacity. Online Marketplaces Platforms like MercadoLibre Venezuela list cable trays with options for free shipping and installment payments, making it convenient for both small and large projects. Prices on these platforms fluctuate based on demand, material, and dimensions, and buyers can compare multiple sellers to find competitive offers. Manufacturers Local manufacturers such as Jeetmull Jaichandlall and CableTray® produce high-quality cable trays in various sizes, shapes, and configurations. These manufacturers emphasize durability, load-bearing capacity, and compliance with industry standards. Custom orders are possible, which may affect the final price depending on specifications and production volume. Price Range While exact prices vary, standard metal or wire mesh cable trays in Venezuela generally start from a few tens of US dollars per meter for basic models and can reach higher prices for premium or custom designs with advanced finishes. Factors affecting cost include: Material (steel, aluminum, or coated metal) Tray width and height Load capacity and structural design Brand and supplier reputation Customization or special coatings for industrial environments Practical Considerations When purchasing cable trays in Venezuela, consider: Supplier reliability and warranty Availability of installation accessories like brackets and connectors Delivery options and shipping costs Compliance with local electrical stan...
