

South Sudan Grid Cable Tray

AI Overview

Grid cable trays in South Sudan are available through local suppliers such as Shopit, primarily in urban centers like Juba, where most electrical infrastructure projects are concentrated. Cable trays, which are essential for organizing and supporting electrical cables in grid and building installations, can be purchased in South Sudan from local dealers. Shopit is one of the main suppliers offering a variety of cable trays with competitive prices and delivery services across the country .

These suppliers cater to both commercial and residential projects, including mini-grid and off-grid installations. South Sudan is in the early stages of building its national electric grid. Only about 1 percent of the population currently has access to the grid, with most electricity concentrated in Juba, the capital . The country relies heavily on rooftop solar systems, diesel generators, and small mini-grids to provide electricity to homes and businesses . As the government and development partners invest in grid expansion, cable trays are increasingly needed for both utility-scale and off-grid projects.

Installation Considerations When sourcing cable trays in South Sudan, it is important to consider: Project location: Most grid and mini-grid projects are centered in Juba and surrounding urban areas . Type of installation: Cable trays are used in both overhead and indoor electrical systems, including substations and commercial buildings. Supplier reliability: Using established suppliers like Shopit ensures access to genuine products and delivery support .

Summary For anyone looking to acquire grid cable trays in South Sudan, the most practical approach is to contact local suppliers in Juba, such as Shopit, while coordinating with ongoing grid or mini-grid projects. Given the country's limited grid coverage, cable trays are primarily used in urban electrification projects, renewable energy installations, and new infrastructure developments .
